As the millennium
nears...

We'll Be Anything But Quiet!

From the beginning of their educational careers in the Ellendale school system, this year's senior class has been anything but quiet. As one of the largest, social and competitive classes in the building, they have made themselves known. Besides that, they have the unique distinction of being the last graduating class of this millennium.

As we look back at all that our school has accomplished in its 83 years, we should feel quite proud. It was pretty tough to walk up and down those stairs in the old school building for so many years. And the new school building is something to be proud of also. It has some of the latest technology, including access to the Internet. Our school and its senior class have definitely left their marks.

Let's always strive to be remembered in a good way, but

quietly!"

Superintendent Retires

"It is time," stated Kirk Hansen. "I need a change."

After twenty-nine years as superintendent of Ellendale Public Schools, Kirk Hansen will retire June 30, 1999. A native of Forman, ND and having been in the school systems of Wilton and Oriska, North Dakota and New Effington, South Dakota, Mr. Hansen chose to apply and accept the job at Ellendale because it was a good community with a good school, medical services, a church he attended, and the right location in the state.

Mr. Hansen stated that he has had many good experiences at Ellendale School and cited the new school and all of the new technology in the school as probably the best experience as superintendent.

Hansen plans to spend his retirement restructuring his life. "I want to do things different in education, go fishing, and look for things to keep me busy," he says.

Football Team Makes History

When the 1998 football season was all said and done, the Cardinals found themselves as the most successful team in EHS nine-man football playoff tournament history. The team advanced through playoffs to the quarter-final round where they were beaten by Hatton-Finley-Sharon.

The Cards ended with an 8-3 record and third place in the region.

Seniors receiving recognition include Josh Peldo who was named to the All-Region Team and The Forum's Fab 44 Football Team, and Tom Kaiser and Tyler Middlestead who were also named to the All-Region team. Three other Cardinals receiving Honorable Mention to the All-Region team were Juniors Kip Mahler, Jeff Ulmer, and Justin Bobbe.

GBB Ends Season With Winning Record

Under the leadership of new coach, Chris Shaffer, the girls' basketball team ended the season with a winning 16-7 record. Throughout the season, they gained endurance with many long hard practices.

Three experienced seniors Barb LaMont, Cherron Kingzett, and Kari Hanson lead the team to a victory over the defending state champions, the Oakes Tomatoes.

For the second year in a row, the Cardinals made it to the district championship against the Wimbledon-

Courtney Warriors. The game went into overtime, but the Cardinals were upset with a loss. In the first round of regional play, the season ended with a loss to the Wishek Badgers.

Senior Barb LaMont and junior Amanda Kingzett were awarded All-District honors. Amanda Kingzett, Barb LaMont, and Sarah Kaiser were named to the all-conference team. Amanda Kingzett was also named to the second team all-area for the Jamestown Sun and first team all-area for the Aberdeen American News.

Thunder Wrestles to Momentum Season

Led by four seniors, Tyler Middlestead and Jason Miller from Ellendale and Pat Bollinger and Larry Dahlman from Edgeley, Thunder wrestling had an exciting season this year.

These four helped the Thunder team place fourth in the Southeast Conference Tournament for the first time since the two towns combined as one wrestling team.

In addition to the SEC victory, the Thunder team placed second at its own invitational tournament, second at the Ashley-Wishek Tournament, and fourth at the Regional Tournament.

At the Regional Tournament, five wrestlers placed in the top four spots to advance to the state wrestling tournament in Bismarck. Jason Miller took third, Tyler Middlestead took third, Thor Sand took third, Adam Moch took second, and Pat Bollinger took first with a pin.

At the State Tourney, Tyler took eighth and Pat lost to the number one seed and took second. Thunder wrestlers gave the fans a very exciting season.

Cardinals Best Season Since '85

With only one loss during the regular season and a fifth place ranking in the state Class B polls, the Cards entered post-season play hoping to achieve a berth in the state tourney. Those hopes were dashed in the final game of the regionals as the Cards had to settle for second place to L-M-M.

One consolation to the disappointment of the loss came during the regular season, however, as the Cards defeated Oakes in the annual Cowbell game. The victory was bittersweet, though, as the coveted Cowbell had been stolen, and the Cards did not receive possession of it until several weeks later.

Nine seniors led the Cards to the final record of 22-3 under the direction of head Brian Vance in his first year as head coach at EHS.

Nothing Quite Like It!

Lights, camera, action! "Happily Never After", a comedy, was selected by the members of the EHS drama club for regional competition and dinner theater presentation.

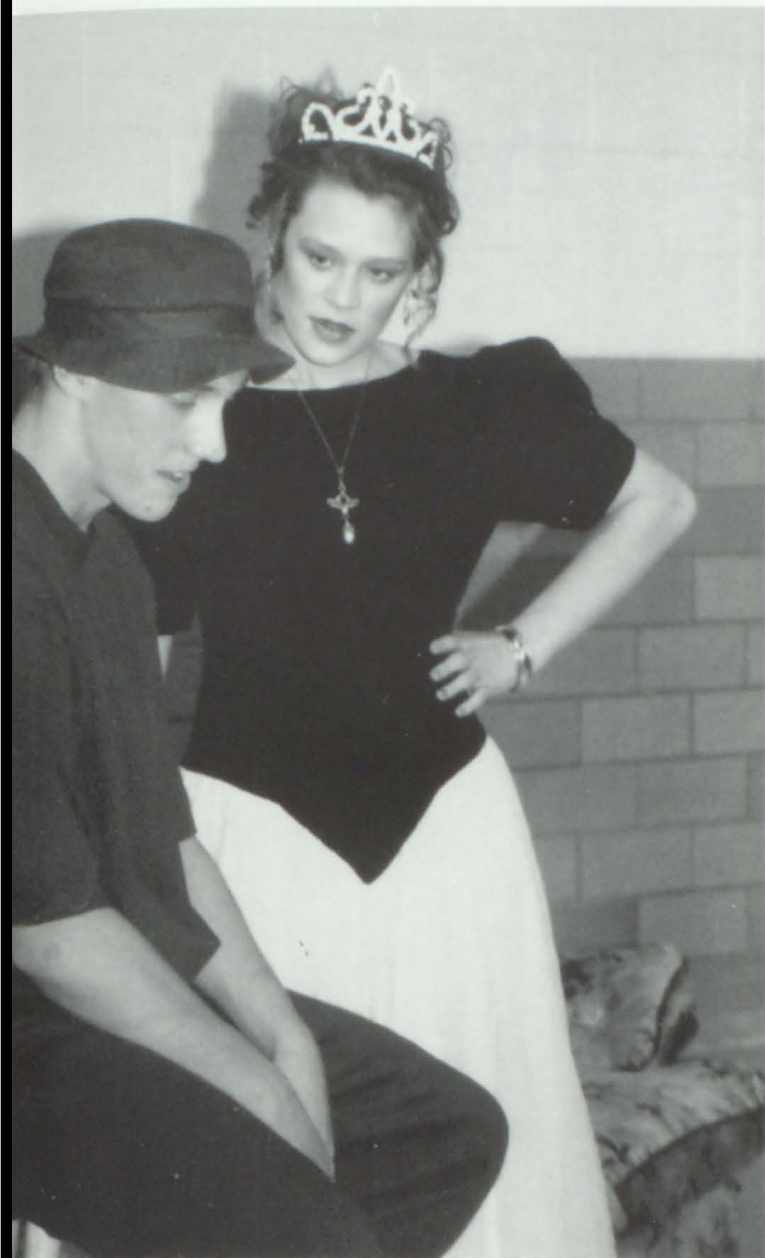

The play tells a story of traditional fairy tales gone all wrong. Although EHS did not place in regional competition, Cameron Brauer received the award for superior performer.

Sleeping Beauty, played by Amber Brokaw, rests up for her afternoon nap during the dinner theater performance.

The yearbook staff, which consisted of Echo Brown, Keney Krein, Amy Brandenburger, Cassy Gayman, Mrs. Thielges, Amanda Janke, David Gassman, Kim Maunu, Kristi Hafey, and Amanda Heine, worked hard to produce the 1999 Redbird. During second semester, seniors Cherron Kingzett, Alison Heinrich, and Aaron Thielges joined the staff to help complete the project.

Taking a "Close-up" Look At Washington, D.C

Fourteen juniors left for our nation's capital on March 21. After some problems at the airport, they finally arrived in the early morning of the next day. They spent a fun week meeting new people from all over the country and sightseeing after attending seminars and group sessions learning about our government.

Life At EHS

STUDENT LIFE

Thursday of Homecoming Week EHS looked as if it had been transformed into an ancient Roman High School as students dressed for Toga Day. Senior Aaron Thielges and freshman Rebecca Rodlund won the best-dressed award for the day.

Best-dressed farmers Kip Mahler, junior, and Barb LaMont, senior, won top prize for their working clothes on Wednesday of Homecoming Week. The dress up days are a traditional part of Homecoming Week to promote school spirit.

Girls' basketball captains Kari Hanson, Cherron Kingzett, and Barb LaMont express their appreciation for fan support during the Homecoming Week pep rally.

Homecoming Promotes Spirit

Lindsey Martin and Jeff Glynn were crowned Homecoming King and Queen.

What do sports events, kings and queens, and dressing wacky all have in common? Homecoming!

Homecoming Week is the traditional time at EHS for promoting school spirit. The week began with the crowning of Lindsey Martin and Jeff Glynn as king and queen to reign over the week's activities.

Wednesday and Thursday were dress up days and the halls were filled with farmers on Wednesday and Romans on Thursday. Red and Black Day on Friday spurred the football team on to a victory over the Strasburg Clippers.

Senior football captains speak at the pep rally in the top photo while senior Tom O'Neill leads his class in a skit in the photo below.

Bridge Contest

In the third annual bridge-building contest held by the physics students at EHS, Barb LaMont's bridge beat Lars Wundrum's record of thirty pounds. Lars achieved the former record last year, but Barb's bridge held 77.5 pounds which outdid the old record by far.

It takes the students about one and one-half to two months to build the bridges at home. The bridges have to be at least 56 cm and 85 grams at the most.

The bridge contest was begun to give students an opportunity to participate in the science fair in a different way. Science fair instructor Peter Sykora feels that by the time students are seniors, they should have the scientific process down.

Sand Advances to Philadelphia

Sophomore Jordan Sand became only the second person from EHS to advance to International Science Fair competition in Pennsylvania. He and science teacher Peter Sykora traveled to Philadelphia by bus to present his project on making paper out of straw.

Although he did not receive any awards on the international level, Jordan said it was a very good experience and very educational to find out how well others did their experiments. Forty countries with about 997 people participated in the International Fair.

When asked if he was surprised at making it so far, Jordan replied, "No, I am never surprised by anything I ever do."

The Time of Our Life

By: Lukas Tvedt and Josh Peldo

The Senior Class of '99' is quite a class for sure
To make our class a respectful bunch, there really is no cure.
We were a class of different tastes; we had a mind of our own.
When it came to authority, they were nearly overthrown.

Amy spoke her piece when the time was right to tell.
Always just a little late or just before the bell.

Cameron gave us pictures, he found on his PC.
He thought he had a thing with women; he really made them flee.

Amber was a farmer, or so her parents thought.
She always had a lot of money for everything she bought.

Jenny Fischer was the new girl in our little school.
She always had a story, some of which were cool.

Joy was always golfing; Tiger Woods she wants to be.
She'll make a living golfing and earn a lot of money.

Carla loved to dance on couches and sing to songs out loud.
She always had a smile; of this we all are proud.

Brock was always golfing and a quiet one indeed.
He drove around a lot and felt a need for speed.

Kari always smiled about the grief we gave.
When it came to Trevor, she sure made him behave.

Alison was a singer and a brainiac in class.
After her bout with mono, we couldn't be sure she'd pass.

Amanda Janke was quiet, and quite a little spark.
But when it came to driving, she didn't know where to park.

Cherron, she was a dancer; the drill team she did try.
Watching her and Tyler, it always caught our eye.

Keney was always quiet; he never really talked.
He always played his Playstation, and slept 'round the clock.

Chad was like the godfather; he always had a crowd.
He drove around with all his friends and laughed and screamed real loud.

Danielle was never talking, unless we said her name.
She never really talked to us; I think we gave her shame.

Barb was always studying; in the classroom she always was in sight.
But when it comes to basketball, she always liked to fight.

Josh Lematta had his hunting, the animals all beware.
If only he could hit something, he'd give them quite a scare.

Amanda Maly was a manager of track and volleyball.
A manager of movies, we thought she had it all.

Lindsey was always crying, about her hair or something said.

She had a problem driving, leaving deer she hit for dead.

Jason was always working on his trucks out in the shop.
He fixed a lot of engines and didn't know when to stop.

Wendy was a sitter, of kids of every age.
But when it came to homework, she never did a page.

Tom O'Neill was the mower; he always did the grass.
But when it comes to golfing, he always finished last.

Brandon is known as the hunter, his pickup has stories to tell.
Johnny Cash was his favorite singer; he played with fire well.

Andy was the biggest guy in all the senior class.
He should have been in football, but he wasn't very fast.

Ryan always drove his car and turned his music loud.
Queen is what we always heard; his house could hold a crowd.

Aaron loved the Yankees and sports of every kind.
But basketball he lived for, the three-point stroke to find.

Jenny Weinmeyer was always talking; she was always very loud.
She thought that she was always right, her looks she was so proud.

Lila was religious; she invited us to church.
To find the meaning of her words, we always had to search.

Erica always changed her hair and wardrobe every week.
She always liked to golf and play, but good grades she had to seek.

Trevor liked to ride his horses and drink lots of "pops".
But when it came to basketball, he really had some hops.

Jeff was always driving in his pickup around the town.
If ever there was trouble, the cops had his number down.

Justin was the smartest kid; he had a 4.00.
But when it came to driving, he always put on a show.

Tyler was the loudest kid in all the senior class.
But when it came to "Mario Kart", he always finished last.

Lukas was a forgetful one, who always lost his stuff.
Then when it came to Madden, he wasn't very tough.

Josh Peldo was the ringleader, or so the teachers thought.
If ever there were rules to bend, he was always one that fought.

Tom was always working in school or on the farm.
But when it came to football, he inflicted lots of harm.

Now our time in high school is all but said and done.
Now we'll get diplomas, the times we had were fun!
